THE GAZETTE.

SATURDA' E. ENING, NOVEMBER 14.

HELD BY THE HAND.—By the mystery of the incarnation our whole being is fringed on every side with fatherliness indescribaable, our little lives, which sometimes seem so stricken, so abandoned, so tried, are virtually floating in an ocean of unfathomable love. When the emart and trial of educa-tive effiction is upon us the wise tenderness of eternal love incarnate is whispering: "What I do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter." It was recently recorded of a little lad in a London hospital upon whom it was necessary to per-form a surgical operation, and to whem it was impossible, owing to heart weakness. to administer chloroform, that his father said to him: 'Do you think you can bear it, my son?' "Yes, father," he replied, "if you will hold my hand." It is a picture lesson with hold my hand." It is a picture lesson of the helicary in the midst of the position of the believer in the midst of the perplexing trials of life. The operation is inevitable, the anodyne is unattainable, a fine and noble soul can only be made perfect by suffering; but God, in the incarnate, ever present Jesus, not as an abstract attribute, but as a loving, interested friend, holds the hand of the believer with the grasp of sympathizing omnipotence.—Canon Wilberforce.
